

Author: Stacy David Thurston

Not Only the Famous

Unfortunately, there are heroes who crash and burn from depression. In the 60's, Marilyn Monroe. In the 90's, Kurt Cobain. This decade had Robin Williams, Anthony Bourdain, and my friend Mark Langland.

His mind was in trouble, he was depressively pained,
Each time he tipped his glass, his senses drained,
Down and Death-wards he sank,
As though of hemlock he drank.
Forlorn, how his emotions were like a bell,
Tolling him back to his soul's dark well,
Back to fears, darker than I've ever known,
Causing him to shake, when he stood alone,

2 / Stacy David Thurston

His mind was a tangled forest, the light grew dim,

Lost in the woods, he feared Brothers Grim,

In the air was the night owl's haunting song,

In the wind he heard three witches sing along,

“Double, double, toil and trouble;

Fire burn, caldron bubble.”

Darkling he whispered to the Reaper in rhyme,

Calling the Specter's name too many a time;

He was half in love with easeful Death,

To take into the air, with his last breath,

And in a moment of delusion, he ended his pain!

We only heard silence as his soul screamed in vain.

Wishing my friend with me as I drift and roam

Down country roads where I'm far from home,

I pine for his friendship beyond tomorrow,

Aware of lost time, full of sorrow.

Sad are we, whom he had at one time cherished,

We feel dazed and confused that our friend has perished.

Thankfully there are flowers at our feet,

Fragrant tree blossoms, colorful and sweet,
Refreshing our thoughts on this new day,
As our friend is with angels on heaven's way.
Spring and hope will return each revolving year,
The flowers, the bees, and the song birds reappear.
His bright eyes and laughter, we'll remember anew,
Happier are we, for his happiness we knew.

Not Only the Famous, is an original poem by Stacy David Thurston, California, United States of America. Inspired after passing of my friend, and reading John Keats's, Ode to the Nightingale. Percy Bysshe Shelley had wrote Adonis to honor Keats after his passing from tuberculosis. This poem is my way to honor those who have fallen to mental illness.

My Writing Credits

My poem, I am Canadian, was published in my alma mater's magazine, 2007 issue, University of Manitoba.

Getting Started with Sun ONE, is my computer book published 2004 by Prentice Hall.